SATURDAY, JULY 22

2:00 PM

MITCHELL PARK LIBRARY, 3700 MIDDLEFIELD RD., MIDTOWN ROOM

Please join us for a screening of the documentary film Petals in the Dust: The Endangered Indian Girls. This film documents a filmmaker's personal journey to understand and shed light on the origins and the enormity of the war against Indian women. Director: Nyna Pais Caputi. 89 min.

*Conceived in 1998 at Stanford University by film critic and educator Jasmina Bojic in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of the signing of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, UNAFF screens documentaries by international filmmakers dealing with topics such as human rights, environmental themes, women's issues, children, refugee protection, homelessness, racism, disease control, universal education, war, and peace. By bringing together filmmakers, the academic community and the general public, UNAFF offers a unique opportunity for creative exchange and education among groups and individuals offer separated by geography, ethnicity and economic constraints.
